POLICE PREPARE TO HALT RED SCHEDULE PLANNED BY MOSCOW

Soviet Plans Riots To
employment.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Communists, planning a huge demonstration here tomorrow, were warned by police officials today they would not be permitted to congregate in City Hall Park and any attempts to march to the office of Mayor Walker would be met with "police clubs."

Police Commissioner Whalen advised the Red leaders they would find ample space in Union Square to stage any demonstration. He said all rioting and lawlessness would be suppressed.

As city officials and police prepared to keep order at tomorrow's demonstration, they were inclined to consider lightly receipt of a letter warning of a gigantic bomb plot. Police said they thought the letter was the work of a crank.

It was signed "special investigator" and was sent to Federal Attorney Tuttle. The letter said plans had been made to bomb all large buildings in New York and to assassinate leading officials here and in Washington.

MOSCOW, March 5.—Having sent out appeals to all their headquarters abroad for demonstrations against unemployment throughout the world tomorrow, the Communist International and the Profintern today were confident their plans for a world-wide protest would be successful.

Joseph Uzelovich, assistant general secretary of the Profintern, today emphasized that employed Communist workers as well as unemployed should participate. He warned Communist leaders abroad not to allow any split between workers and jobless because, he said, "both are fighting the same class enemy—the capitalists."

He said the slogans to be used in protesting tomorrow should be along the following lines: for the

THREE BODIES IN WRECKAGE OF AIRPLANE

SAWTELLE, Calif., March 5.—Three men were killed in the wreck of a biplane on the outskirts of the Will Rogers ranch near here, according to reports to Sawtelle police.

An earlier report stated that two bodies had been found in the unidentified wreck.

The plane was found by two Rogers employees and a police squad was rushed to the scene.

Bodies of the two occupants of the plane were cold when found, indicating the crash had happened hours before.

The ranchers could find no marks of identification on either body in their hurried search.

The department of commerce number on the ship was reported to be C-3378.

The sheriff's office and the coroner's office immediately dispatched men to the scene of the death crash.

Owing to the heavy underbrush into which the plane plunged it is estimated that it will take several hours to bring out the bodies for identification.

DESTROY $150,000 WORTH OF LIQUOR

CLEVELAND, Mar. 5.—Authority to destroy $150,000 worth of rare wines and liquors which were seized by federal agents from a box car in the New York Central yards here, was awarded today by U. S. District Attorney Wilfred J. Mahon.

The liquors were contained in 135 boxes labeled "cement," when confiscated by the federal men. The shipment was enroute from Detroit to New York, it was said.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Arraigned before Probate Judge S. C. Wright Tuesday on an affidavit charging him with selling liquor, Frank C. Bauer entered a plea of not guilty. He furnished $600 bond and was discharged from custody to await a hearing assigned for 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, March 12.

WANT OHIO SONG
COLUMBUS, O., March 5.—The State Department of Education will announce soon a contest for an official song for the state of Ohio, it was learned today. The words should be at least three stanzas, the rules will stipulate and substantial prizes will be offered.

FLOOD TOLL MOUNTS IN FRANCE; REPORT MORE THAN 140 DEAD

PHYSICIAN SLAIN

No plausible explanation for the slaying of Dr. Alfred P. Scully, 62-year-old bachelor physician of Cleveland, has been arrived at by police. He was brutally murdered in his office-apartments and his attacker escaped unseen.

JEALOUS MOTIVE IS LATEST THEORY FOR MURDER SOLUTION

Two Men Are Sought By Those Probing Doctor's Death

CLEVELAND, O., March 5.—Jealousy was being considered as a motive in the strange murder of Dr. Alfred P. Scully, 62-year-old bachelor physician, today as police pressed their investigation in an effort to lift the veil of mystery shrouding the slaying.

The newest theory developed in the perplexing murder is that a friend or relative of one of the physician's women social acquaintances, who harbored a grievance, fancied or otherwise, against Dr. Scully, carefully planned and executed the man's death.

Descriptions of a man, who is believed to be the probable murderer, have been reported to police by two persons. Charles Ferguson, bank cashier, told police of a man he saw loitering suspiciously about the hallway leading to the physician's office. Dr. Scully, at the time, was having dinner in a nearby cafeteria.

Miss Vera Fields told authorities that a man staggered into the baroque stand where she is a waitress about 10 o'clock Monday night. He bore a gash on his forehead and kept muttering, "They won't get me after tonight," Miss Fields said. The man left in a taxi.

The number of the taxi has been learned, police said, and the driver will be questioned today to learn where the man was taken.

Examination of the bullets with which Dr. Scully was slain, has revealed that they were probably of foreign manufacture, according to David L. Cowles, police ballistics expert. They were fired from a .32 calibre pistol which is believed to have been equipped with a silencer.

Theories that the murder may have been committed with a motive of robbery or for the purpose of obtaining narcotics have almost entirely been abandoned by the police investigators.

Authorities are confident that the physician was slain by a man. Two bullets were imbedded in Dr. Scully's body and his head had been battered in with such powerful blows as could not have been delivered by a woman.

Funeral arrangements for Dr. Scully were upheld today pending the arrival of the physician's brother, J. O. Scully, from Los Angeles. It was expected that the body would be removed to Dr. Scully's birthplace at Lindsay, Ont., for burial.

FURNISHES BOND

Bound over to Probate Court by R. O. Routzov, mayor of Fairfield, after he had entered a not guilty plea to a charge of possessing liquor, Homer Null, Bath Twp., appeared before Judge S. C. Wright Tuesday and was released from custody upon $600 bond pending a hearing fixed for 9 a. m. Thursday.

One Town Inundated By Bursting Dam; Loss $3,000,000

PARIS, March 5.—The most devastating floods suffered by France in more than a century have taken a toll of more than 140 lives, reports reaching here from inundated districts indicated today.

The greatest death toll was taken at Moissac, a town on the river Tarn, where, according to reports, a dam burst during the night flooding the community and causing about 100 persons to drown.

The flooded area in Southern France was virtually isolated today and attempts to make exact estimates of the casualties and damage were difficult. All telephone and telegraph wires were down, roads were impassable and railroad tracks were washed out.

However, it is believed that property damage will run well above $3,000,000. Hundreds are homeless. Many prosperous farmers lost all their possessions when the floods swept away the live stock and ruined crops.

Prior to the bursting of the dam at Moissac, more than forty persons were known to have lost their lives in various towns along the Tarn, Lot, Garonne, Aude, Agout, St. Amour and Correze, all of which are now raging torrents.

The government has taken every possible measure to bring relief to the victims of the floods. Premier Tardieu, himself, and other cabinet officers are directing the relief work from here.

The floods followed cloud bursts and torrential rains.

A number of cemeteries were ravaged by the floods in the Carcassonne district, coffins being torn up from the ground and carried away. Six villages in that territory are badly stricken by the floods.

One Carcassonne woman was drowned in trying to rescue her aged and paralytic father.

TAFT PASSES GOOD NIGHT; BRIGHTER

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Former Chief Justice Wm. H. Taft, desperately ill with a combination of maladies from which his physicians do not believe he can recover, had "a very good night and was much brighter this morning," it was learned at the Taft home at 8 o'clock today.

The patient even had a cheery, though weak, "good morning" to those who entered the sickroom.

This report on the ex-president's condition was accompanied by the usual warning, however, that not too much hope was to be revived because of his seeming progress.

Considerable disappointment was caused by the postponement of submarine discussion, the conversations being put over until tomorrow on the plea of the Japanese, who said they were unprepared at the present time.

The consensus of opinion is that eventual limitation will be not lower than 1,800 tons apiece, as tentatively agreed upon at Geneva. It probably will be considerably higher.

If Tardieu gets his confidence vote, the French are expected back here tomorrow afternoon.

REWARD BUYS FARM

NEW YORK, March 5.—A farm in his native Porto Rico will be purchased with the $5,000 reward Cudomiro Ruiz, taxicab driver will receive today from Mrs. John E. Parsons, Ruiz found a pocketbook containing Mrs. Parsons' jewels, valued at $45,000, and promptly turned it over to police.

EX-RUSSIAN ACE MAKES AIR RECORD

NEW YORK, March 5.—Boris Scargievsky, former Russian ace and now an American citizen, today claimed for the United States the altitude record for planes carrying weight. He flew to an altitude of 19,500 feet yesterday in a Sikorsky plane loaded with 4,450 pounds of steel ingots.

The record was formerly held by France.

ITALIAN DELEGATE PESSIMISTIC OVER DEMANDS OF FRENCH

Thinks Tardieu's Return
To Prevent Success
Of Meet

LONDON, March 5.—Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister and chief of his nation's delegation to the five-power naval parley, believes that the conference will fail completely soon after the return of the French delegates, it was learned today.

Grandi's pessimistic attitude was revealed when he sent a telegram to his wife, who is now in Rome, advising her to remain there pending further developments. She had planned to join him immediately.

The Italian delegate's viewpoint is based on the apparent assurance that Andre Tardieu will be given a vote of confidence as premier of France in the chamber of deputies, enabling him to return to London to push his demands for a fleet approximating 725,000 tons.

In spite of the confidence of British and American delegates that the parley will achieve a successful limitation treaty, Grandi's pessimism was only one of a number of concrete indications that the conference was having grave difficulties. The others were:

1.—The Japanese government has instructed its delegates under no circumstances to recede from a 70 per cent auxiliary ratio demand.

2.—The cruiser negotiations between Japan and the United States reached an apparent impasse.

3.—The Japanese government has instructed its delegates to discuss maximum tonnage limitation of individual submarines were balked by Japan's protest she was unprepared for such a conversation.

Nevertheless, Grandi's attitude was not shared in other conference quarters, although it is regarded as a foregone conclusion that great difficulty will be encountered in obtaining a recession from France's big navy demands if Tardieu is upheld by the chamber.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, head of the American delegation, returned to London today from his country place at Stanmore, Middlesex, quite recovered from the cold which kept him at home for two days.

He presided over a lengthy meeting of the American delegation at the Ritz Hotel, and is visiting Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald this afternoon to inform him of the progress of the American-Japanese negotiations.

There is some belief that Japan has reinforced her 70 per cent cruiser demands merely in the hope of influencing America to a compromise. This belief is bolstered by the fact the Japanese delegates are openly pessimistic over the chances of a successful agreement.

They may be exaggerating their pessimism in order to obtain concessions from the United States.

There would seem to be little actual difficulty, owing to the improbability and improbability of America building more than fifteen big cruisers before 1936, but the Japanese are reluctant even to admit tentatively the theoretical right of the United States to build an additional three after 1936 unless they are granted the same theoretical right to build proportionately.

Considerable disappointment was caused by the postponement of submarine discussion, the conversations being put over until tomorrow on the plea of the Japanese, who said they were unprepared at the present time.

The consensus of opinion is that eventual limitation will be not lower than 1,800 tons apiece, as tentatively agreed upon at Geneva. It probably will be considerably higher.

If Tardieu gets his confidence vote, the French are expected back here tomorrow afternoon.

SETTLE DISPUTE

TOLEDO, March 5.—The Fremont postoffice dispute was settled in the federal court here today, when the government allowed $50,000 for property for the site for the new postoffice there.

"HIGH HAT" WILL BE NEXT GAZETTE SERIAL

"The Best Story We Ever Released!" That's the way the syndicate described "High Hat," the new serial story by Alma Scourby which starts in THE GAZETTE soon.

You know Alma Scourby, of course. She is that delightfully charming writer who wrote "The Flat Tire," considered unofficially as the best newspaper serial of 1929.

When her publishers say that she has exceeded her former work, they are making a bold assertion. Miss Scourby has not only reached the heights quickly in the newspaper serial field, but she has attained the very pinnacle in her brief career.

Miss Scourby is young, enthusiastic, vibrant with personality and she writes herself into the characters of her stories. As a newspaper woman in various parts of the coun-

CANDIDATE KIDNAPED BY OPPOSITION QUITS RACE

CHICAGO, March 5.—The bitter political campaign to elect a twenty-second ward committeeman was thrown into an uproar today when five men wearing police badges allegedly kidnaped Otto F. Janousek, a candidate, and hustled him from his downtown hotel room.

Janousek's withdrawal from the race followed soon after the asserted abduction. Janousek was a rival candidate of Anton J. Cermak.

The insurgent group in the election insisted Janousek was kidnaped from his midday held prisoner by opposition forces until he withdrew his candidacy.

Police, when called to rescue Janousek, investigated and learned that five men entered the candidate's Sherman Hotel room with guns drawn and forced him to accompany them. Immediately the hotel was in an uproar.

He was located soon afterwards in the Cermak headquarters. Janousek's only explanation was that he had been "influenced" to leave his group and had definitely decided to withdraw from the race. He insisted that he had been "rescued" from the insurgent group and denied he had been abducted.

WOMAN RALLIES DRY LEADERS TO ANSWER TESTIMONY OF WETS

Prominent Drys To Testify To House Committee

WASHINGTON, March 5.—With a soft-spoken, motherly little woman in command, the nation's dry leaders today summoned spokesmen before the house judiciary committee to answer the wets' demand for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and to pronounce prohibition an unqualified success.

Mrs. Lenna Yost, chairman of the legislative committee of the conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment, is the generalissimo of the dries, with Rev. E. C. Dinwiddie, secretary, acting as her adjutant.

She temporarily assumed the "dry czar" mantle of the late Wayne B. Wheeler, while the Anti-Saloon League faded into the background and its superintendent, Dr. F. Scott McBride, became a private in the ranks. Dr. McBride has announced his organization would cooperate with Mrs. Yost's committee, of which he is a member.

The situation revived stories current several months ago that some of the dries were demanding a more militant leader than Dr. McBride.

Although prepared to summon scores of witnesses, Mrs. Yost said the dries may not take all the time allotted to them by the committee. The hearings on bills to repeal the prohibition amendment have been denounced as "shadow boxing" by some of the dries.

Among the first witnesses to be called are Samuel Crowther, author who recently expressed the arid views of Henry Ford; Edward Keating, editor of "Labor" and former member of congress from Colorado; Patrick Callahan, business man and Catholic of Louisville, Ky.; C. P. Connolly, East Orange, N. J.; Carlton M. Sherwood, New York attorney; Henry M. Johnson, Louisville attorney; and Dr. Daniel A. Poling of New York, president of the Christian Endeavor.

Mrs. Yost said she did not expect Henry Ford, John D. Rockefeller Jr., or Alfred Sloan, all mentioned as dry witnesses to offset the "big business" advocates of the wets, to appear.

Dr. McBride, announcing that his Anti-Saloon League would cooperate in the dry presentation, characterized the hearings as "a sham battle," confident that the committee will not recommend a change.

"While the hearings have been quite a sham battle, there have been certain things which ought to be answered," he said.

"Among these are wholly misleading or untrue statistics, such as those concerning alcoholism in Chicago. Statistics will be presented to show the true effect of prohibition."

"The wet presentation is no indication of a change of sentiment. Their spokesmen have been chiefly those who have always been wet. It is the same old story of the wets talking to themselves."

Two men are dead here today, victims of another Union County grade crossing accident. They are Robert Nelson, 23, of Detroit, and James Hanson, 25, of Ecorse, Mich.

They were fatally injured last night when the truck in which they were riding was struck by a fast New York Central passenger train at the Main Street crossing here. The truck, which was the property of the Hewitt Soap Co., of Dayton, was demolished.

CARBON MONOXIDE GAS KILLS THREE; MOTHER, CHILD DEAD

TOLEDO, O., March 5.—Carbon monoxide gas today had claimed the lives of three persons, including a mother and her small son.

All were suffocated when the gas escaped from a hot water heater. The bodies were found by the woman's husband when he returned home from work last evening.

The victims are Mrs. Mary Dedock, 20, her son, George, 15 months old, and Mary Pruchnic, 18, who was visiting the family.

Walter Dedock 27, the husband, narrowly escaped a similar fate. He was nearly overcome by the gas when he went into the gas-filled apartment, but he succeeded in making his way to the outside again.

Dedock said he and his wife came here from Windber, Pa., fifteen months ago. Miss Pruchnic is from Detroit and she came here Saturday to visit with the Dedocks.

ARTIST SUCCUMBS
SANDUSKY, O., March 5.—Funeral arrangements were being made here today for Ralph S. Tebbitt, 81, noted Ohio portrait and landscape artist who died suddenly at his home here late yesterday following a heart attack.

DRY OFFICER HELD

Richard J. Proud, above, chief investigator of the prohibition unit in Chicago, has been held on $10,000 bond pending a hearing on charges that he sold secret records on an important liquor conspiracy investigation for $75. Two Milwaukee men were taken with Proud when he gave them the records in a Chicago railway station.

The department of justice, which in other years has displayed almost a tolerant attitude toward the activities of prohibitionists, professes to have only a tolerant, almost academic, interest in tomorrow's demonstrations.

In the course of their regular work, the department's agents keep in touch with communists' activities, but no widespread riots are planned for tomorrow, nor is there any indication of undue alarm over what the demonstrations may develop. The federal slogan appeared to be, "leave it to the local authorities."

Attorney General Mitchell announced he was unable to confirm reports that the demonstrations tomorrow have been directly financed by Moscow. That the world-wide propaganda machine of the Soviet has encouraged the program is little doubt, but rumors of Moscow authorities having sent millions of dollars into America to put on the show are taken here with a large grain of salt.

Instead of becoming unduly alarmed or hysterical over the scheduled demonstrations, administration officials from President Hoover down have turned their attention to the more serious side of the situation—which admittedly is the growing unemployment throughout the country.

The cabinet discussed it rather

THIRD VICTIM DIES OF WOUND RECEIVED FROM MANIAC FIGHT

Bystander During Battle Is Fatally Injured

DEFIANCE, O., March 5.—William C. Chappell, 34, Toledo salesman, who was shot through the abdomen Friday by the maniac killer, Hubert Floehr, 60, who barricaded himself in his home after murdering his wife, died in Defiance City Hospital today. His is the third death as the result of the shooting.

Dynamite, tear gas, machine guns and a "one pounder" were used by police officers and Ohio national guardsmen to dislodge Floehr at the time of the sensational gun battle which the maniac staged.

He finally committed suicide a short time before authorities hurled eight sticks of dynamite into his home, which was partially wrecked.

Newell Littlefield, 20, of Newport, Maine, a Defiance College senior, who was shot through the right lung while witnessing the pitched battle between the posse and the crazy man, was reported to be slightly improved today. It was thought, at first, that Littlefield would die, but he now has a chance for recovery.

A number of other persons, taken completely by surprise by the military movement, were reported to have been wounded at scattered points about the city.

ACCUSE YOUTHS OF FOUR AUTO THEFTS

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Mar. 5.—Charged with stealing four automobiles, Fred Watson, 17, of Benwood, W. Va., and Clyde Murray, 17, of Bridgeport, are under arrest here today.

The two youths were brought here yesterday by Chief of Police E. H. Gintz from Carrollton. Three of the machines were recovered.

One of the cars, owned by Charles Truman, of this city, was abandoned by the pair at Akron.

The youthful alleged bandits were arrested at Carrollton by Sheriff John Kemthorne, who said that they had confessed to stealing the cars. A revolver was found in Murray's left shoe, officials said.

MARATHON ENDED

COLUMBUS, O., March 5.—The dance marathon here ended early today when the three remaining couples agreed to split the purse of $1,500. The six had danced for 1,610 hours, or 67 days. It was estimated that each will receive approximately $3.75 a day.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., March 5.—Although it is customary for motorists to stop their automobiles because of the presence of persons or dogs in the street, rarely does a chicken cause much delay. The fowls are usually left lying along the roadside, their legs kicking the air.

However, L. L. Moore, of Martins Ferry, former Republican mayor of Holloway, declares that he stopped his car on a street here to avoid striking a "cocky" black rooster.

The living emblem for the Democratic party waddled into the street in front of the Presbyterian Church, and refused to budge despite the over-use of the Republican's horn.

GOVERNMENT IS NOT EXCITED ABOUT RED UPRISING PROGRAM

Local Authorities To Act;
Unemployment Worries Leaders

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The federal government refused today to become excited over the "Red uprisings" which Communistic elements have planned tomorrow in scores of American cities as a part of a world-wide demonstration against unemployment and the existing industrial situation.

The policy of the government is to leave the handling of the demonstration to local authorities in every case. If there is "rough stuff" club swinging and head breaking, apparently it is to be done by municipal police and not by federal agents.

The department of justice, which in other years has displayed almost a tolerant attitude toward the activities of prohibitionists, professes to have only a tolerant, almost academic, interest in tomorrow's demonstrations.

In the course of their regular work, the department's agents keep in touch with communists' activities, but no widespread riots are planned for tomorrow, nor is there any indication of undue alarm over what the demonstrations may develop. ## INCENDIARY FIRE DESTROYS BARN

COLUMBUS, O., March 5.—An incendiary fire early today destroyed the barn on the farm of R. M. Borror, near here, and three horses and three cows perished in the blaze. Loss was placed at $2,500.

Borror's automobile was found wrecked about a mile from the farm. Someone is believed to have stolen the car and to have then set fire to the barn.

HEADS LIVESTOCK BODY FIFTH YEAR

COLUMBUS, O., March 5.—F. G. Lyle of Hillsboro, today began his fifth consecutive term as president of the Ohio live stock co-operative association, following his re-election at the annual meeting of the board of directors here yesterday.

Irwin Porteus, of Coshocton, was re-elected vice-president and R. Q. Smith, of Columbus, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Hearken unto me, ye stouthearted, that are far from righteousness: I bring near my righteousness; it shall not be far off, and my salvation shall not tarry; and I will place salvation in Zion for Israel my glory.—Isaiah, xlii, 12, 13.

SHIRKING? NO

The statement by Congressman Garner that the country has not lost confidence in Mr. Hoover is as groundless as his insinuation that it is part of Mr. Hoover's duty to write for congress the legislation it shall enact. All signs point to the country's still having far more confidence in its chief executive than it has in its national legislature—and especially in the senate. The hands-off policy which Mr. Hoover has adopted toward congress was formulated by the framers of the constitution, when they divided the labors of government among three distinct bodies: a legislature, an executive, a judiciary. Any encroachment by one of these bodies on the province of another tends to impair the smooth working of our finely balanced administrative system.

The chief executive for the time being appreciates this far more clearly than Congressman Garner appears to. All the assistance Mr. Hoover has asked of congress in performing his executive duties is the necessary funds or authority, which must be obtained from the legislative branch. Otherwise he has left congress to mind its own business, which is to enact laws, while he is attending to his, which is to execute them. The idea that the executive must add to his own proper functions that of solving legislative problems is alien to the whole scheme of government under which we live. Any inclination on the part of Mr. Hoover to assume this additional load of responsibility would have been dampened by the reluctance of the legislative branch to co-operate with him, which was so plainly revealed by its attitude toward the appointment of a commission on Haiti.

Congressman Garner's complaint that Mr. Hoover has not informed congress in advance of the sort of legislation he thinks should be enacted arises either from a misunderstanding of the genius of our government or from a desire to make it appear to the country that the responsibility for congressional ineptitude rests with the chief executive. The latter assumption is equivalent to implying that Mr. Hoover is shirking responsibility. As a matter of fact it is congress that is shirking its task, when it refuses to do its own sums. The responsibility for the way the tariff bill has been handled lies squarely with the two houses of congress. The executive is not concerned with any law until it is laid on his desk for approval or veto. The country understands that even if the Democratic leader in the house of representatives pretends not to.

WHEN PRAYER HELPS

The efficacy of the day of prayer to aid in the campaign to clean up their town "politically and as a crime center," which the leaders of the Chicago Church Federation have appointed, will depend largely upon the extent to which the participants rise from their knees and set about answering their own petitions. If there is a saying that "the prayer of the righteous man availeth much," it likewise is notoriously true that "the Lord helps those that help themselves." Cromwell's roundheads were great men to pray, but they also had the habit of fighting like mad immediately afterward, and it was a combination of the two habits which made them irresistible. Which seems like a very good tip for the Chicago churchmen.

The amount of trouble France has with her cabinets suggests that she needs some new political carpenters.

A congressman complains that proposed immigration legislation contributes to the unrest of the nation. What contributes more to it is the fact that such legislation was not adopted several generations ago.

ALWAYS TIME

Alden Solmans, 95 years old, has his excellent paintings exhibited in New York. Mr. Solmans, bank president and business man, didn't decide to take up art until he was 80. Now he has had fifteen years of it, likes it, does well in it, and should go on painting for a long time. Many who have read this column think they are getting old at fifty or sixty. They hesitate to take up something new, however much they are interested in it. That's too bad. Don't hesitate to tackle the thing you long to tackle, whether you are thirty, fifty, eighty or ninety. Men, taking care of their bodies and minds, should be going good when thousands of them think they are getting through.

JAY WALKERS

In London jay walkers can insure themselves against their own carelessness. Pedestrians have been sued for causing traffic accidents and have had to pay damages. Sounds more or less silly. Man always does well to insure himself against circumstances which he can't control, including death. But a man must be very careless or very foolish or both who has to insure himself against his own carelessness. A man who won't do as well as he knows how is a little bit crazy. Jay walkers included.

OUT OF FOCUS

One of our common and sad mistakes is to get into the way of thinking that temporary pleasure is important. If we have missed a good time we are likely to look upon our "loss" as a kind of tragedy. That's because we are out of focus in our outlook on life. Very likely temporary pleasure is only the beginning of pain and grief. By foregoing it we may have saved ourselves unhappiness. A little pleasure is of less than trifling importance in comparison with the contentment and peace of mind which may flow from thoughtful renunciation or from moderation. Let's not get all out of proportion by setting too much store by an ill-considered good time.

LOYALTY

The quality of one's loyalty may be a real check-up on the human being as a whole. If we are not loyal to something or somebody we are no better than a bit of driftwood on a wide current. There must always be in every well-ordered, thoughtful life a few things that are worth doing and a few things that are not to be done.

PROBLEMS

Some problems that seem large are large only in our own minds. When minds and bodies get under par problems take on size and present difficulties that are not there. Very likely the problem will prove to be simple and easily solved. The trouble is we are looking at it subjectively instead of objectively. A lot that passes for fog in our own thinking.

WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

"Please briefly review Central American political history," requests a Question Box reader. Originally a Spanish captaincy-general, including part of Mexico, present-day Central America became independent in 1821. Later it was subject to Emperor Iturbide's Mexican regime, but, with his rule's collapse, assumed practically its present political form (though with many boundary disputes), except Panama, which was held by Colombia until its declaration of independence in 1903. The United States has intervened physically to protect its interests in Nicaragua, where it holds, by treaty, interoceanic canal rights (as yet unexercised), and possesses over Panama (in addition to complete control of the Canal Zone) a protectoral authority adequate for canal defense. Otherwise (except for whatever tutelage the Monroe Doctrine may imply) the Washington government's Central American policy has not been carried beyond frequent arbitration efforts in the various republics' repeated civil and inter-republican clashes. The William Walker ventures in Nicaragua and Honduras in pre-Civil war days were those of a purely irresponsible filibuster.

IMAGINARY SNAKES

Has there ever been a snake which, coiling itself about its victims, actually whipped them with its tail? Or a snake which, rolling up to a small tree, like a hoop, could kill it with the thrust of a stinger in its tail? Past or present, science is unacquainted with either of these snakes.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—The Shuberts, Leckajaks, czars of theatrical Broadway, average fifty plays a year—shows that they actually produce and have an interest in. They have 35 playhouses in town, with 1,700 actors working for him this season. Next year they count on having that many more.

The brothers are not popular; but that fact worries them to no visible degree. They pursue the even tenor of their way, take 'em or leave 'em. Lee, the Head Man, never smokes and seldom drinks. He has three cars, three chauffeurs, is single and used to have a yacht which he used about once a year. If you're talking to him and the conversation doesn't end when he thinks it should, he turns on his heel and walks away.

Here's his opinion of New York's theater critics: "They're tired men, well-intentioned and for the most part intelligent, but damn weary."

DEPARTMENT STORE WAR

A spectacular price war is being waged by two of New York's largest department stores. One of them sells for cash only. The other advocates the charge account. Hourly reductions are the order of the day and in both shops goods are disposed of below cost.

The attention of the public is daily directed to this merchandising schindig in questionable newspaper advertisements—questionable in a commercial sense because the average customer adheres to the belief that in both shops losses on reduced merchandise are made up in increased prices of other goods.

Little children, playing at business.

IT'S A HICK TOWN

Buddy Rogers, who is breaking all attendance records at the Paramount, blocks Broadway when he tries to cross from a nearby restaurant to the theater. The crowd surges outside the particular Nose Bag where the young man takes sustenance.

"What's all th' shottin' fer?" you inquire.

"Buddy Rogers is inside," replies a lounging taximan.

Pretty soon, out into the midst of the mob comes a policeman—a young chap in a gray suit clinging to him.

A chorus of soprano squeals.

"It's Buddy! Come on, Buddy, give us the old smile!"

The young man complies, and with the crowd pressing around him, he and the cop shoulder their way into the theater.

Dear old, sophisticated Tammany Town!

THE ANXIOUS SEAT!

Oil Companies Start Litigation To Find Out If They Can Merge

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Desiring to combine their two outfits, the directors of the Standard Oil company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company will get a friendly government official to start in-junction proceedings against them, to prevent them from combining. There is no other way of finding out whether or not the U. S. supreme court will let them combine.

The companies' lawyers do not know, although they are among the best lawyers in the country. Neither Attorney General William D. Mitchell nor any of his assistants know, although they are the government's experts on the subject. Each supreme court justice may know what he personally thinks about it but even the justices do not know what the whole nine of them think, collectively.

To be sure, there is a law which tells exactly what companies can and cannot do when their managers want to merge them.

Undoubtedly the companies' lawyers have a perfectly clear idea of this law's meaning. So have Attorney General Mitchell and his aides and all the supreme court justices, separately and individually. What congress intended, when it passed the law is plain enough to anyone who takes the trouble to read it.

However, the mere meaning of the law has nothing to do with the matter. The problem to be solved is: What, in the opinion of the supreme court, as a body (a majority of it, anyway), is the law's meaning?

Only extremely simple-minded folk imagine that they understand the United States constitution because it appears to say so-and-so, or that a law is a law because congress has passed it and it has been signed by the president.

The constitution and the laws mean what the supreme court interprets them to mean. Or possibly the supreme court decides that a law is unconstitutional altogether. In such an event it means nothing whatever. The supreme court annuls it absolutely.

The New York Standard and Vacuum Oil companies' legal advisers are too clever to assume that they can go ahead and merge merely because the law lets them do it. They realize that they first must make sure that the supreme court will let them. The only way they can ascertain is by means of a suit to stop them.

Sometimes it seems as if there might be surer ways of determining what a doubtful law really does mean than the method of leaving it to the courts to determine.

For instance, the prohibition bureau itself admits that the "elder and fruit juice clause" in the Volstead act is contradictory. Folk are liable to go to jail under that clause, not because it is certain that the law means they should be put in jail, but because of the interpretation which the courts have put upon it, in an effort to read some sense into it.

Now, why should the courts, which cannot possibly know what notion Andrew J. Volstead had in his head when he wrote the clause undertake to explain it?—with Andrew himself perfectly available to furnish his own explanation? Why not ask Andy Volstead?

I put this query one day to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan—that is, not literally the Volstead query, but a similar one.

It happened that a law of which the Wolverine statesman was the author was threatened with a supreme court interpretation. It seemed to me that he, if anyone, was best qualified to interpret it—having written it and presumably knowing what he meant by it.

"Yes," said the senator, "I know what I meant when I wrote it, but how do I know what the other senators and representatives thought I meant when they voted for it?"

On reflection, it must be admitted that there is something in that viewpoint.

Nevertheless, it accords to the supreme court more power than the president. He can veto but he cannot change laws, and the supreme court can—in effect if not in terminology. His veto can be overridden, too, and the supreme court's is final.

It virtually makes the laws, if it interprets them. "Absolutely," agreed Senator Vandenberg.

Today's Recipes

Cheese Fondue—One and one-fourth tablespoons butter, one cup bread crumbs, one cup grated cheese, one cup sweet milk (scalded), salt, three egg yolks. Mix all and heat until dissolved. Add three egg whites well beaten. Bake in buttered pan in quick oven.

Stuffed Pork Tenderloin—Split a pork tenderloin in half, lengthwise, leaving the halves joined together. Pound each half slightly, then spread with a regulation poultry stuffing (bread crumbs, melted butter and warm water) to which has been added chopped olives, pickles, and seasoning of lemon juice. Arrange the stuffing so that it will be higher in the center; sew or tie the edges of the meat together and roast about 45 minutes in a 450-degree oven.

Suggestions

Shrinkage Due to Moisture What makes materials shrink in the wash? After a searching scientific investigation into the cause of textile shrinkage in the laundering process, G. H. Johnson of the Mellon Institute for Industrial Research sets down these definite conclusions.

Moisture, and not temperature of cleaning methods, is the controlling factor in the shrinkage of cotton woven goods. Excess temperature or the use of certain laundry supplies have no bearing on the matter. Shrinkage varies with the cloth. Plain weaves in general are more durable.

Therefore, when buying clothing and household materials, it is well to remember that a good quality, plain weave textile is likely to give more satisfaction than loose or figured weaves. Frequent laundering with soap and water will have little or no effect upon the length of the fibers.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Alcoholism

"DEAR DOCTOR: Is alcoholism hereditary? My fiancé is a wonderful man but is addicted to drink. So long as he lets the stuff alone, he does very well, but the first drink always calls for more. He has been on prolonged drunks, lasting from two to three weeks at a time, four times this year. Is it a disease, and isn't there any way of curing it?"

"If we were to be married, would there be any danger of transmitting the habit to our children? We both love children and plan to have them but I wouldn't want such a terrible habit to be passed on them."

"MISS B."

Your fiancé is what is known as a dipsomaniac, one of the most difficult types of alcoholism to cure. The habit itself couldn't be transmitted, but the lack of moral resistance, which may be due to a defect in the brain cells, may be inherited. Then, it is pretty well established now that the germ plasm can be injured by alcohol, and children conceived, especially during alcoholic indulgences, may be defective in some way, mentally or physically.

You are taking a very great risk in marrying a dipsomaniac, Miss B. If I were you I would insist that he go to some ethical institution for a cure and remain cured for at least two years, before I married him. Every large city has these institutions for the cure of drug and alcohol addicts, and you can get the names of them by ringing up the county medical society of your city.

Mrs. R.: I wouldn't put any faith in any institutions that advertise they can cure you by mail—absolutely not! Go to a competent physician and have a complete physical examination and advice. Can't you see that such institutions are really nothing, but money-making affairs?

My Dear Followers: Please do not write me, giving your symptoms and asking for a diagnosis! That is the province of your own personal physician who has examined you. It is impossible for me to do so. And when you write to me please confine your letters within the 200 word limit. Remember what an enormous number of letters I get daily for my feature, is syndicated; that means it appears in very many papers over the United States and Canada.

When you see a similar question to yours answered in the column, take it for your answer, whether your initial is appended or not, for if I answer all of you on that question, no other subject could be considered and the column would not be of general interest and of a nature that can be written on in the column!

H: Jumping rope is a splendid reducing exercise, but it is rather violent, so not all can indulge in it.

We have a number of splendid exercises outlined in our article on the Tummy Ten, which are very helpful. See column rules for obtaining this. We also have a pamphlet on gaining and losing.

Tomorrow: Answers to mothers.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following "mail charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet ten cents in coin. ## Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am coming to you for some help. Please tell me what I can do. Somebody told my husband that I am fooling around with other men. I try to tell him it was a lie, but he won't believe me."

"Honest, Virginia, I would never fool around with another man. I love my husband. What can I do? He won't talk to me because I lied to him before, when I would do anything wrong. I can't eat I am so heartbroken? Please tell me what I should do. I have three children. Should I go away?"

"HEART BROKEN." Sit tight and wait until it is proved that you have done nothing wrong. It will be. And, after this, don't lie to shield yourself. It's much better—and easier in the long run—to take one's medicine.

"Dear Virginia Lee: Is there any truth in superstition? I have been very superstitious about everything I hear. Just today I broke a mirror, which is supposed to mean seven years' bad luck. Has this tradition been handed down or is it true?"

"MISS SUPERSTITIOUS."

All superstitions have been handed down from a time when people were ignorant and afraid, and so accounted for everything that happened to them by luck or evil influences. In these days we know—or should—that breaking a mirror and other similar accidents are unlucky only as you have to replace the article, but have no bearing whatever on one's future life. So cheer up, Miss Superstitious.

SILMER is a young, happily married woman with a darling baby. She lost her mother when she was 15 and still misses her very much. She advises all girls who have mothers to take the best possible care of them, for "there is nobody on earth like a mother." Thank you for your sweet little letter, Silmer.

WORRIED SUE: If your friend persists in his jealousy, the best way to convince him that you are not interested in other boys is to break with him and tell him why. He is selfish and will never make a girl happy as long as he persists in his unreasonable attitude.

KAYO: The girl probably wouldn't accept your invitation if she didn't like you. Talk about school matters, about the movies, the theater, books, sports of all kinds, your mutual friends, etc.

BLUE: Don't try to prevent the boy friend from going visiting at the former girl friend's home. You are foolish to try to restrict his liberty. Drop the matter.

LONESOME PEGGY: If you are sure the boy's mother believes an untrue story about you, it might set her right if you went to her and told her your side.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Would you kindly express an opinion concerning my little problem? Nineteen years of beautiful wedlock with the best girl in the world terminated with a call to her to the beyond. Seven years having elapsed, am now confronted with a desire to become acquainted with a lady to whom I have been attracted, but am held in restraint owing to the absence of a third person. "Have been tempted to disregard form and introduce myself, but fear a scolding. HE."

Thank you so much for your compliments on the column. I shall save them to read when I am particularly discouraged. Convention does seem foolish, under the circumstances you mention. Couldn't you speak or write to the lady and refer to some friend or friends to whom she could go for references regarding your standing, to show your sincerity? I don't believe she would be offended.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

In far away days, when Praxiteles created his masterpieces, when Raphael painted his first Madonna, when hoop skirts bobbed gracefully over silver heeled feet—there was only one line of beauty: the curve. There were curves in figures, circles in decoration, arcs in every possible creation of artist and decorator and designer.

And then we awoke to a new conception. The cycle was complete, and clean lines and sharp angles began to dominate our art. I have said a new conception, but that is not really true. The lines of today's art are older than the curves of yesterday. But, old or new, one thing is true—and interesting; namely, the way the importance of line has come to the foreground. Hats may have a scrap of silk, a wisp of straw, a minimum of effort, and if they have "line" they are little masterpieces. Clothes may be simple as only real art can make them, but they must have "lines."

And to match that same vigor of our clothes and our hats and our surroundings, we must learn to cultivate the sense of it. We must teach our eyes to see. You may not realize it, but the eye, itself, is a lazy thing. Have you ever thought how often you judge by the impression of an effect rather than the actual seeing of an object. You do, whether you fully appreciate the fact or not. Eyes prefer to follow the sweep of the lines indicated rather than the actual line itself. That may be perfectly satisfactory insofar as the rest of the world is concerned, but where you choose your own gown, and complete your own ensemble, it is of the greatest importance to understand the correct way of achieving the best effect.

There was a time when the famous dressmakers of Paris supplied only the gown you ordered. Now, you are shown not only your gown, but the hat, the shoes, the cleverly clocked stockings, the bag—even the handkerchief and perfume. "I think, really, it was self-defense upon the part of the designer. These Paris designers have exclaimed so often at the total loss of effect when one of their favored gowns is spoiled by just the wrong hat."

Since the ensemble idea has crept into vogue, beauty demands a knowledge of line, and now with spring wardrobes paramount in your minds, I am going to try in these next few days to give you just the simplest principles of this most important subject.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR CLINIC AT MEETING OF HEALTH LEAGUE
Plans for a tuberculosis clinic to be held at the Court House Tuesday and Wednesday, April 8 and 9, were discussed at the monthly dinner meeting of the Greene County Health League at the Iron Lantern, Tuesday evening. The Greene County Medical Society will cooperate with the league in holding the clinic.

Mrs. Guy-Harold Smith, special tuberculosis health nurse who is employed by the league for several months, gave a report of her first month's work in the county. In her report she brought out that there are twenty active cases of tuberculosis in the county; four suspects, four pre-natal, thirty-one contact, seven school hygiene. She has taken five suspects to a Dayton clinic and found one positive case in the five. She has called on the Social Service League four times and interviewed eighteen physicians, spent ten hours in Xenia city schools and addressed a Parent-Teacher Association meeting.

Louis Hammerle, superintendent of city schools, will assist the league personally by showing a health film, which is being sent from the State Department of Health at Columbus, in the schools March 17, 18, 19 and 20. Anyone interested in seeing the film is invited to come to the schools. A roundtable was conducted by the president of the league, the Rev. Carl White of Yellow Springs and many phases of the work were discussed at this time including how to increase the interest of the public in the league. Special mention was given "The Gazette" because of publicity given the league's activities.

Requests Bring Mammy Singer Back On Air After Illusion Shattered

KATHERINE TIFT-JONES — a CALLIOPE

NEW YORK, March 5.—"Skopie nagon Calliope, Historian Om Holla kylvann. Mrs. Tift-Jones."

The last we saw of Katherine Tift-Jones she was running around the broadcasting studio with the "Svenska Pressen" in her hand, trying to find someone who could interpret the above. There was a two-column story, and all she knew about it was that the Swedish paper had given her the write-up, and she didn't even know why, or where they got it.

Finding a Swede to read it for her was about as difficult as trying to find a policeman when you are badly in need of one.

The famous creator of that beloved negro mammy air character "Calliope" was born in Tift County, Ga. Her people were the founders of the county, as the name implies, Southern for generations back.

When Katherine was a little child she began imitating her old black mammy and telling her stories and copying her talk and her deep chuckle. When she grew older, her father and mother, thinking "eloquent" a mighty nice pastime for a lady, placed her under the tutelage of such well-known teachers as Mary Ann Lipscomb, Theodora Ursula Divine and David Buspham.

At first she played at parlor dramatics. But—soon blossomed into a platform personality and, of course, when radio came, found it the ideal outlet for her talent.

"Calliope" was thought for months to be a real character—the maid of a southern lady in a New York apartment. She was so real that the "Bide a Wee" home sent her a medal for championing a little sick dog. Her mistress in the sketch, "Miss Jean," also played by Katherine, disapproved of keeping it in the apartment.

Things came to such a pass that, painful as it was, the truth had to be revealed. The studio was wild with telephone calls and gifts for "Calliope." The situation got beyond their control. There was actual weeping all over the country when it was learned the old

SHORT BOB DOOMED

CLEVELAND, March 5.—The "marish bob" is doomed, and in its place as the "last word" in coiffures is the "long-haired bob," according to the edict today of the 3,000 Ohio hairdressers attending the three-day convention of the Ohio Hair Dressers' Association here.

The "long-haired bob," according to its exponents, combines the grace of the long hair with the freedom of the short bob.

FRAMED by Phil

For the first time in recent years Xenia Central's basketball team has a chance to get somewhere in the Southwestern district tournament to be staged at the Dayton Coliseum Friday and Saturday with the sectional semi-finals the following weekend.

In 1928 and again in 1929 Xenia teams were eliminated in the tourney by champion Dayton Stivers quintets but the luck of the Buccaneers turned this year and Xenia is in the opposite bracket from the Orange Crushers. Not only that, but another stroke of good fortune is the fact Dayton Roosevelt, the second strongest team among the thirteen Class A entries is also in the opposite bracket from Xenia and will probably be eliminated in its first game as it drew a first round bye and will be called upon to face Stivers, which has an easy opponent in Troy for its opening tourney game.

Xenia will not have an easy time of it, however, as it must meet Springfield in the first round at 10 a. m. Friday. Despite the loss of three regulars by graduation in mid-year the Wildcats served notice they are still to be reckoned with by defeating Middletown in a return game on the Middle court and Xenia experienced great difficulty in downing the Middies on the local court during the regular season. The final score of 30 to 15 did not tell the entire story as the topheavy victory was only achieved by a big rally in the last quarter.

Providing, however, Xenia should eliminate Springfield, the Bucs will meet the winner of the Chambliss-Kiser game at 5 p. m. Saturday and either of these two Dayton teams will prove exceptionally hard to beat.

One unfair thing about the annual state basketball tournament is the fact that a school rated in Class B has no chance to win the distinction of having the best high school basketball team in the state.

The tournament is divided into Class A and Class B and four-year schools with an enrollment of 150 boys or more are regarded as Class A.

Class A and Class B state champions are decided every year but where the unfairness comes in is the fact the champions of each division do not meet in a play-off game to decide which is actually the better team.

Ordinarily, it may be presumed that the Class A team would win if such a series could be arranged but this would not always be the case.

The rules, however, provide that any Class B school whose season's record indicates that it is of Class A strength may enter an A tournament, provided permission is obtained from the commissioner of the Ohio High School Athletic Association.

As a result, if a Class B school believes it has a team as good as the general run of Class A quintets, it may be promoted to the higher class if it desires.

From a financial standpoint and on an attendance basis, the sixteenth annual Greene County Class B basketball tourney, was the most successful in the history of the event.

Supt. A. F. Roush, of Ross Twp. schools, manager of the tournament estimates the total attendance on both days was well over the 4,000 mark and that gross receipts will probably be between $1,000 and $1,100. Last year the attendance was 3,572 and receipts were between $950 and $1,000.

The yearly tourney has always realized a net profit of about 50 per cent of gross receipts and this amount is pro rated evenly among the competing schools.

Spring football practice, contrary to present weather conditions, may be ushered in soon at Xenia Central High School. Coach Wilson is a firm believer of the advantages of this spring training, pointing out that the fundamental side of the game can be gotten out of the way at that time. When regular ball practice begins the two weeks of preparation can therefore be devoted almost entirely to more important phases of the game.

An unflinching sign of spring is the disclosure that a meeting of representatives of the eight teams which composed the two softball leagues sponsored by the Xenia Playground Association last year will probably be called soon to map out plans for recreation ball this summer. Entries of teams will be received, leagues organized and schedules arranged.

HOWLEY BELIEVES IN PLENTY OF WORK

ORLANDO, Fla., March 5.—Dan Howley, the Reds' new manager, believes in the formula that "work and plenty of it brings success" as evidenced by yesterday's workout.

The pitchers, with the exception of St Johnston who was convalescing from an attack of the mumps, had their first real workout. For an hour and a half Howley had the pitchers covering first base on "its to the right infield. Perspiring freely and leg weary, the flingers thought they were through for the day, but instead they were sent to the outfield where they chased the balls for another hour. A short romp around the park concluded their work.

Batting practice will be today's menu for the Cincinnati National League.

REPORT 150 GRID CANDIDATES ANSWER SPRING CALL AT O. S. U.

COLUMBUS, O., March 5.—Approximately 150 gridiron aspirants have answered the initial call for candidates at Ohio State University in preparation for the winter and spring training sessions.

Most of this week is to be devoted entirely to registration, and issuing of equipment, Sam Williams, director of football said. A series of lectures on fundamentals will also be given. The squad of candidates is expected to number about 250 hopefuls by the close of the week.

The early session will be suspended at the end of this week due to final examinations for the winter term. Training will be resumed in earnest March 25, when school is reopened following the spring vacation.

Sessions will be held every day from then until the close of school in June, Williams said, culminating with the annual spring football tournament.

CEDARVILLE WINDS UP COURT SCHEDULE BY BEATING URBANA

Cedarville College's basketball team wound up its schedule with a 32 to 26 victory over Urbana Junior College Tuesday night on the Urbana floor, marking the second triumph for the Yellow-Jackets over Urbana this season.

Cedarville assumed a huge lead at the first of the game but this margin was gradually narrowed and halftime found the Borstmen ahead, 21 to 17.

In the second half Urbana came back strong and finally forged out in front by one point with five minutes left to play but Cedarville tallied seven straight points in the closing minutes to sew up the contest.

Playing his last game, as he is a senior, Gordon, Cedarville forward, was high scorer for his team with nine points, while Turner tallied eight. ## BUCCANEERS WILL PRACTICE THURSDAY ON TOURNEY FLOOR

In order to accustom itself to the Dayton coliseum basketball floor where the southwestern sectional state tournament will be staged Friday and Saturday, Xenia Central High School's court squad will practice on the court Thursday afternoon for one hour between 1:30 and 2:30 o'clock, Coach Walter Wilson announces.

The floor will not be entirely strange to the Bucs, however, as the recent Xenia-Stivers game was played at the coliseum.

Xenia's opponent in the first round of the tournament will be Springfield Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Announcement is also made by O. B. Bogart, faculty manager of athletics, that the school has available about twenty-five season tickets entitling the holders to admission to all the tourney games, both Class B and Class A, Thursday night, Friday and Saturday. The season tickets were distributed to all of the competing schools and will cost $1.50. Single admission tickets will be 50 cents a round and 75 cents for the finals Saturday night.

POLICE PREPARE TO HALT RED SCHEDULE PLANNED BY MOSCOW

seven hour-day; for increased wages; for security against unemployment; against capitalistic nationalization in factories, mills and mines; against lockouts; and against overtime work.

The Pravda, official organ of the communist party, in an appeal addressed "to the masses" said:

"The strike movement which developed after the sixth congress of the communist (last summer) may now be characterized without exaggeration as a revolutionary ferment."

CLEVELAND, O., March 5.—Police officials here were writing today under a scathing criticism leveled at them by Municipal Judge Martin L. Sweeney for the police order which closed City Hall to more than 1,000 unemployed persons just before the now famous "riot of the jobless" last February 11.

Judge Sweeney took the police officers to task after discharging two men arrested for assault and battery and three men arrested for disturbance at the time of the so-called Communist uprising.

"The City Hall is a public institution," Sweeney declared. "These persons are unemployed and some of them may be Communists, but that makes no difference."

The police order permitted admission of only 500 of the mob of 1,000 in to the council chamber where the welfare committee was in session.

PITTSBURGH, March 5.—Pittsburgh Communists will defy the orders of Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh that they not parade here tomorrow, they indicated today.

Although police have been ordered to break up any attempted "red" parades, local Communist leaders have issued a call for a meeting of sympathizers at a downtown railroad station arcade. After a brief exhortation there, a parade through the downtown section will be attempted.

Pamphlets have been issued to school children urging them to "play truant" tomorrow to join the cavalcade.

Communist leaders also indicated they plan meetings at principal industrial centers in Western Pennsylvania, despite prohibitory police mandates.

BALTIMORE, March 5.—Leaders of local Communists today served notice on Police Commissioner Gaither their members will parade to the City Hall tomorrow without obtaining a permit from the Mayor's office as required by city ordinance. Gaither declared he will uphold all ordinances—including the one requiring a permit to parade—and has instructed the majority of the police on night duty to be in uniform and uptown tomorrow during the parade.

COLUMBUS, O., March 5.—Special police reserves are to be called out tomorrow in anticipation of "Red Day." Chief of Police Harry French declared that the Communists would not be allowed to stage a march or demonstration here.

GOVERNMENT IS NOT EXCITED ABOUT RED UPRISING PROGRAM

fully yesterday, and today it was reported that President Hoover is considering the advisability of summoning a national conference of industrial heads and labor leaders, similar in scope and purpose to that held in 1921 when unemployment became serious in the first year of the Harding administration. As secretary of commerce, Mr. Hoover was chairman of that conference.

The chief question mark in the present situation, according to administration leaders, is the unknown extent of unemployment today.

Estimates of the workers now jobless run all the way from 3,000,000 to 8,000,000, but the painful fact is that no one knows, and the figures are all guesses, based upon scanty figures which permit of certain deductions.

Secretary of Labor Davis, in his statement replying to Senator Wagner today, said the forthcoming decennial census would show there are some 46,000,000 wage earners in the country "and certainly 42,000,000 of them are at work." That would set the unemployed at 2,000,000, which most authorities agree is a very low estimate. Some authorities even contend that 3,000,000 represents the normal unemployment in the United States, even in good times.

There is not a single government department or bureau in Washington that is empowered or equipped to keep unemployment statistics. The department of labor issues percentage estimates of increases or decreases in employment, but these relate only to certain industries and localities, and not to the great mass of workers who are untabulated and unchecked.

The department of commerce and the federal reserve board keep their fingers on the industrial pulse, but can only estimate the number of unemployed. The American Federation of Labor can only estimate unemployment as applied to union men. The federation now estimates 19 per cent of unionized workers are unemployed.

If the 19 per cent of union unemployment is indicative of general conditions, it would mean approximately 8,000,000 workers unemployed. But no one knows.

In his unemployment speech in the senate on Monday, Senator Wagner (D) of New York, placed responsibility for existing conditions on the doorstep of the administration.

Today, Secretary Davis deposited the bundle back on congress' doorstep. Davis criticized the senate for delaying the tariff and public buildings bill and asserted this delay has contributed enormously to business uncertainty, resulting in unemployment.

ESSEX CHALLENGER WEEK OBSERVED IN PROGRAM BY AGENCY

The car will also be exhibited in a hill-climbing test Thursday. Steele Poague, auto club secretary, Policeman Shagin and newspaper men will probably be included in the party that will demonstrate the machine in the hill-climb, attempting any hill chosen by the passengers for the test.

The final public display will be made Friday when Miss Dorothy Carter, Xenia, will drive the Essex Challenger through Xenia streets. The car will be properly marked with banners and the privilege is extended to the public to stop the car at any place, Miss Carter will accept anyone for a riding companion and will put the Challenge through its paces for anyone who requests her. The program is being arranged locally by Harry Chappel of the Chappel Motor Co.

ANALYZE THE ALLOWANCE ON YOUR USED CAR

If a dealer pays you more than the true worth of the car he must make up the difference by extra charges on the new car or re-sell it to some one else at too high a price

PERMANENT value is always better than a temporary bargain in the purchase of an automobile. It pays to look ahead and consider reliability and ultimate up-keep costs, as well as comfort, safety, speed, and beauty of line and color.

Since most automobiles are bought for replacement, the value set on your used car is a factor in almost every purchase. Frequently it is given an importance beyond its true worth.

Used cars have a definite market value and you are justly entitled to an allowance based on that value. It is not fair that you receive less. It is not to your best interests to receive more.

If a dealer pays you more than the true worth of the car he must either re-sell it to some one else at too high a price or make up the difference on the new car. This he cannot do unless he is allowed an excessive profit on the car or on financing, extra equipment and other charges. In either case, you pay the bill, for no way has yet been found to give something for nothing. The money must come from somewhere.

You may not get the largest used-car allowance from the Ford dealer, but that very fact should give you confidence that you are receiving full value in the new car. Ford charges are not marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on your old car.

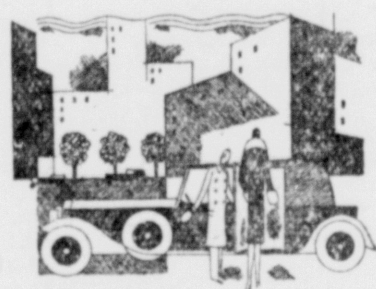

Because there is no waste, extravagance or undue profit in manufacturing, distribution or selling, every dollar you pay for a Ford brings a full dollar in return. In lower first cost, in reliability and long life, in the low cost of operation, service and replacement parts, the Ford will save you much more than the seeming difference in trade allowance.

FURTHERMORE, at least $75 extra value is given to you in the new Ford in the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, the Rustless Steel, the five steel-spoke wheels, and the four Houdaille hydraulic double-acting shock absorbers. The unusually large number of ball and roller bearings, and the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings, are other features that show the extra quality built into the Ford car.

Oil Man Leaps to Death

Death leap of oil millionaire Richard H. Jones from his eighth-story apartment, on Park Avenue, New York, was almost prevented by his wife Louise (both above), when she blocked his path to the window. Jones struck her with a lamp and jumped to the courtyard below as she fell unconscious. Jones was a graduate of the Naval Academy, and a member of the Army and Navy clubs in Washington, while his bride, the former Louise H. Conkey, is a Washington debutante.

FOR THE LOVE o' PATI BY C.L.WEBB © 1929

CHAPTER LI
The room seemed close after the perfume-laden air on deck and beside Pat wasn't a bit sleepy. She decided on a little stroll all alone. She walked forward along the starboard rail to a position under the lee of the windlass house. Here she paused and looked out across the gently heaving ocean, its mirror-like surface ablaze with the reflected stars and moon. Suddenly she stiffened. The sound, distinct, unmistakable, of a sob, a man's sob, came from the opposite side of the windlass house. She moved up a pace or two and looked across the intervening eight feet. Learning with his back against the rail, his head bowed down on his chest in an attitude of abject despair, was Dr. Gordon. Before she could speak, another sob, deep, choking, racked his body. "Why—Frank!" she cried, stepping quickly forward, both amazed and terrified at this strange manifestation. "What under heavens is the matter?" His head jerked up at the first sound of her voice and he straightened instantly, standing stiffly erect in the white moonlight. A look, indescribably pathetic, pleading—a look that told a story of humiliation, of shame—and of pride also—each in its turn, flashed in swift succession across his countenance as he fought for control of his shattered emotions. Finally he spoke, his voice strained, unnatural. "I didn't realize," he said jerkily, "that—anyone—especially you, were—that is, I—thought I was—alone." He stopped, his gaze shifting, avoiding her eyes as if he felt her intuition might probe the smoldering wound in his heart. "I'm just a fool, that's all!" he finished shortly. She moved close to him, took his two hands in her own and looked up into his eyes in the bright rays of the moon, forcing his gaze to meet hers. "Tell me, Frank, won't you?" she asked, a note of pleading in her voice. "What—or who—has hurt you? Is it—is it anything I have done, old friend?" He pulled his gaze away from the pity he read in the tear-filled brown eyes. Was it anything she had done? He wondered if she really were unaware of what she had, all unknowingly, unwittingly done? "Won't you tell me, Frank?" she asked again, her soft fingers tightening around his, "if I am the cause of your trouble?" He told her then—everything; told her that he had loved her from the earliest days of their acquaintance back in France; told her of the agreement that Rex and he had made that night in the taxicab; of the mutual, although unspoken, agreement also to lift the bars when Jimmy had been restored to her. Then he told her of what he had, by accident, seen that night and how he had foolishly allowed himself to think about it until the hurt had got under his arm. "But don't you take any blame to yourself," he went on with forced cheerfulness. "It isn't your fault if a man allows himself to fall in love with you when you have given him no reason whatever to think his love may be returned. As for Rex, I'll tell you just as I told him that night in the taxi: As long as I can't have you myself there isn't another man in the world I would as soon see have you as him!" "It's awfully sweet of you, Frank, to say that!" returned Pat, her voice husky with emotion. "I can well understand now what Rex meant when he said you 'were the kind of a square-shooter and man that made a man proud of being a man.'" As Pat was engaged during the ten minutes she had stood in her stateroom before going for her stroll "all alone," so was Rex during about the same length of time in the apartment on the opposite side of the cabin occupied by Jimmy and himself. Sleep, however, was one of Rex's pet avocations. Perfect health and a clear conscience were the two requisites he possessed in abundance. Added to these now was serene contentment, the joy of knowing the "dearest girl in the world" cared enough for him to be his wife. His wife! Rex thrilled. "Certainly is a glorious 'kick' in that thought," he soliloquized. He turned and looked down at the sleeping Jimmy. In whatever way the latter might be lacking it was not in the ability to sleep. "He's much like me in that respect," muttered Rex, and then he chuckled. He never had heard, he told himself, his sense of humor being touched at the thought, that a high quality of brain power was strictly essential to the "perfect sleeper." Ten minutes later he, too, was rambling through Elysian fields, hand in hand with Pat.

The crashing roar of a deafening, stunning explosion which would have lifted the yacht's stern entirely out of water, was frightful, appalling, coming as it did when nearly everybody was asleep. The plunge and roll of the vessel threw everyone of Pat's party out of his or her berth with a force that rendered two temporarily unconscious. Rex Dallard was one of these. It was fully ten minutes before he recovered sufficiently to begin even to think.

Dallard's first real understanding of matters came when he heard Pat's voice and a knocking at his stateroom door. He opened the door at once.

His still whirling senses enabled him to distinguish Pat, Margery and Lucy, Aunt Lottie and Capt. Lee. All were fully dressed, the girls and Aunt Lottie in their most serviceable clothing and the captain in his regulation white flannel uniform. Rex began to realize then that he had been unconscious. "Jimmy?" quavered Pat, her voice shaking with apprehension, "is he hurt?" Whatever else the explosion had done it had not affected the yacht's lighting system. Rays from the cabin poured into the room disclosing the body of Jimmy lying inert on the floor. With a little cry Pat darted forward and knelt down, raising his head on her knee.

A bruise on the right temple from which a trickle of blood slowly oozed accounted for his insensibility. But he was breathing with perfect regularity, so he would probably come to in a few minutes, it was decided.

"What—what happened?" queried Rex, still half dazed as Pat rose and stepped back out of the room. The captain answered him. "A very serious explosion, Mr. Dallard," he said. "I'll explain while you are dressing. At the same time I'll be getting Miss Blaine's brother dressed, for we don't know as yet how seriously the ship is damaged. I left Mr. Johnson, the first officer, to attend to matters on deck, and the first engineer to investigate the cause and result of the explosion!" He had entered the stateroom

The Theater

The champion hard luck picture, "Hell's Angels," is nearly ready for release, after three years of work and four million dollars in expenses. It was begun as a silent before talking pictures were dreamed of as practical entertainment. Then sound pictures were introduced and "Hell's Angels," and itself in the making, a silent picture, rapidly growing obsolete, with a mounting expense. Adverse weather for air filming, elaborate and costly preparations for air battles and many other things caused delay. Finally it was decided to change the picture to a sound film. This involved complete refilming of all the air and zeppelin sequences which auxiliary sound effects could be used. A change in the cast was also necessary. Greta O'Sullivan, star of the silent version, was replaced by Dolores Costello.

Dorothy Herzog, one of the best known motion picture columnists who regales her large following with the inside news of the world's movie colony, has published a book entitled "Some Like It Hot." Followers of the noted film writer will derive many pleasant hours from perusal of her latest production of her versatile pen.

cause of her foreign accent was minimized in favor of Jean Harlow, an unknown. Production had started again practically from the beginning. One of the giant Gotha bombers crashed, killing one, the other occupant escaping with a parachute. At last the film was finished. It was at a time when the first signs of war pictures were evident, it will be released when this picture is riding the crest of a new wave of popularity.

Dorothy Herzog recalls Richard Dix, who made a flash in the silent film a few years ago, and who has dropped back into oblivion at claims so many screen players. Investigation found Talmadge, so used to acrobats through the years, living on the profits of his stunts and living well. Talmadge's real name was Sylvester Talmadge and he came to this country in Germany. Shortly after landing in Hollywood he got lots of work doubling for Douglas Fairbanks.

Phil Goldstone, then an independent producer, figured him ready for the movies, signed him up and changed his name. The dividends are stupendous until another day brought Talmadge's contract and the star tried to do some acting, at which he fell down. Now he'd like to get in the talkies but his German accent is against him.

26—CLAUDETTE COLBERT
Born Paris, France, Sept. 13, 1906. Arrived in New York in 1913, not speaking a word of English. Hasn't retained the slightest vestige of an accent—not even for publicity purposes.

Was reared according to the strictest moral code. Never went out unchaperoned until she was 18 years old. Became engaged to the first man she ever kissed because she thought Emily Post expected it of her.

Started out to be an artist. Has accomplished it on the stage and screen but not on canvas. Hopes to have time to specialize in portrait work some day.

Three Line Role
Became an actress by simply expedient of meeting Anne Morrison at a tea. Was given three lines to speak in her play, "The Wild Westcotts."

Promised her father that if she didn't establish a name for herself in five years she would abandon all thoughts of a stage career. Admits that it was the easiest promise she ever had to keep.

Played the role of "Virtue" in "Pearl of Great Price." Followed it as exemplification of "Vice" in "The Barker." Scored overnight sensation and has been giving repeat performances ever since.

Made screen debut with Ben Lyon several years ago. Constantly turned down all offers to go to Hollywood because she refuses to be separated from her husband, Norman Foster. Recently won over to west coast contract.

Drinks Lots of Milk
Has never received anything but "rave" notices and interviews. Never sees any of her clippings unless they are sent to her by friends. Was so tickled with the unexpected plaudits accorded her in "The Lady Lies," celebrated by blowing herself to diamond bracelet.

Bewails the fact that she can never be the "Life of the Party." Doesn't drink anything stronger than milk.

Likes to eat at the Hotel Plaza because the chairs are comfortable and at the Lafayette because of its French atmosphere.

CLAUDETTE COLBERT

Drives her own auto. Is always getting pinched for speeding and is always pardoned for obvious reasons.

Is very superstitious. Keeps baby shoe found in taxi in Philadelphia as omen of good luck. Always attaches it to left side of electric light in dressing room.

Favors Penguins
Loves long dresses. And has pedal extremities that leave you limp.

Is extremely sensitive and moody. Doesn't think women like her and doesn't know it is because their husbands do.

Never wears evening clothes except for opening nights. Hasn't attended a dance in three years because her husband doesn't terpsichore and she won't with any other partner.

Dotes on Japanese and Chinese art, penguins, stuffed dogs, Greta Garbo, boats, midnight picture shows, theater seven times a week, people simply but not in groups and Norman Foster, Abhors pungent smells, blatant jazz, burlesqued French, gushing autographs, indigestion and dramatizing sex.

Has a figure that is the modern maiden's prayer. Will not exploit "It" to swell boxoffice receipts. Takes great pride in her police dog, Strongheart's granddaughter, and her Persian cat, Moo Moo. Belongs in a museum. Is an actress absolutely devoid of poise, affectation or conceit.
